Introduction

The Pauline Haass Public Library Strategic Plan guides the work that library staff and trustees will do in the coming years. The plan is shaped with the understanding that the library will remain flexible and adapt its goals and action steps as warranted. Throughout, we will maintain our organizational values and priorities, measure what we do against our mission and goals, and remain focused on serving the community.

In advance of planning discussions, we reviewed library and demographic data, analyzed the 533 results of a community-wide survey, and held a series of conversations with various demographic groups in the community. We are greatly appreciative to all of the members of our community who answered our survey and those who took time from their busy schedules to meet with us for a conversation of how the library can best help the community meet its challenges and reach its aspirations. We also thank the library staff. Each staff member will be integrally involved in implementing this plan, and we are grateful for their input, interest, professionalism, and passion for the Pauline Haass Public Library and its services.

Melissa McLimans and Bruce Smith of WiLS (Wisconsin Library Services) provided essential planning process management and facilitation services during the development of this plan.

Our sincere thanks go to all of the above named groups and individuals.

Background

The community conversations that preceded this plan resonated with two major themes. Sussex area residents:

- treasure what they refer to as the “small town feel” of the community, and do not want to lose that as Sussex grows.
- see the library as a vital community connector: connecting people to information, each other, opportunities, and learning.

The community survey results showed that the library is highly valued, used, and loved by the community. That does not mean it is without challenges. Currently, 87% of survey respondents indicate they consistently use the library 1-2 times per month, with the largest user bases being families with children from infants to grade 6, and adults ages 55 to 74. Several sizeable residential developments are under construction in Sussex, the beginning of a planned 50% increase in Village population by 2020. This significant growth in families moving to the area will have a major impact on the library and its ability to provide services.

While the library facility has many good qualities, the ability to easily expand to meet an expected growth in demand for services is not one of them. The staff works hard to maximize the use of space, but without an increase in square footage in the near future, the library will not have the space needed to serve its public. The library offers many services that are provided through downloads or internet connections, yet 95% of checkouts are physical materials that are found and checked out within the library building. Each day currently brings over 360 visitors. Accommodating up to 50% more visitors will be challenging. A new library meeting room, as well as storage area, in the nearby Civic Building will go far to alleviate some issues, but cannot address the need for space for more collection shelving, quiet and collaborative public work spaces, display areas, relaxed reading zones, and comfortable movement of larger numbers of people.

The library will need to continue to find the balance of welcoming all who walk in its doors while maintaining its focus on the needs and aspirations of Sussex. The library is heavily used by people that live outside of the Village, with 55% of checkouts going to non-residents. As a resource that draws people to Sussex to not only use the library but also visit local businesses and other community locations, the library embraces its role as a regional destination.

The challenges from local and regional growth are not limited to the library building; there is a large staff component to meeting service demand. Based on Department of Public Instruction data, checkouts at Pauline Haass Library run 30% higher than the statewide per capita average and passive program participation by children is more than three times that of the next highest library in the state. The library is currently staffed at a level that allows it only to maintain its well-regarded services; it has limited ability to enhance, expand, or create new services.

Some of the goals and activities in this plan take the form of outreach services and new initiatives to connect people, welcome new residents to the Village, and engage citizens in shaping the future of Sussex. As part of its own connections, the library must continue to strengthen its collaboration with local schools and other community organizations to best meet the expected increase in service demands throughout the community.

As a learning and economic anchor in the heart of the Village, the library looks forward to playing a vital role in helping this rapidly growing community connect and engage its residents and organizations in order to meet its citizens' diverse needs and maintain its small town feel.

Plan Implementation, Assessment and Communication

On an annual basis, the director, library staff and library board will prioritize and identify which service goals and activities in the plan will be their focus. Goals and activities will be selected based on their timeliness, impact, and ease of implementation. Resources and staffing will be considered when setting priorities.

Action plans will be developed for a given year. Such plans may include staff responsibilities and timelines, needed resources, data and information gathering guidelines, and methods for assessing the progress and success of these efforts. Such results will be communicated to all library stakeholders.

This yearly review will also examine the previous year’s efforts to determine if service goal adjustments are needed base on changing conditions or new challenges and opportunities.
